Mark M. Wall dedicates himself to meeting the goals of clients while employing an aggressive but sensible approach to dispute resolution tailored to the business and financial realities of the situation.

Mark's practice is devoted to commercial litigation in state and federal courts. While Mark's forte is litigation, he particularly enjoys serving clients in a general counsel capacity to manage the delivery of the firm's full array of legal services. This allows him to provide holistic representation to businesses and individuals with diverse needs.

His state-wide practice covers the areas of breach of contract, real estate litigation, creditors' rights, corporate governance, partnership disputes and business separations, restrictive covenant and unfair competition cases, probate estate and trust litigation, and complex commercial litigation of varying types. He enjoys representing a broad range of clients from national and international companies to emerging businesses, professionals, business persons and individuals.

Active in both professional and community activities, Mark serves on a Florida Supreme Court-appointed committee tasked with developing Florida's first set of jury instructions for use in business and contract cases. He is a graduate of Leadership Pinellas and the FBI Citizens Academy and has held leadership positions with both hospital and library foundations. Mark serves as the chair of the Hill Ward Henderson Scholarship Program. He lives in Pinellas County with his wife and three children.
