The Florida Bar

Nathan Hatcher focuses his practice on defending consumer product manufacturers involved in complex, high exposure personal injury, wrongful death, and property damage litigation. Over the past ten years, Nathan has been extensively involved in the defense of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company in smoking and health litigation across the state of Florida. He has significant experience at all stages of complex litigation.

Nathan is an active member of the American Bar Association's Section of Litigation. He has served in multiple leadership positions within the Products Liability Committee. He is the past co-chair of its Young Lawyers Subcommittee and currently serves as a co-chair of its Consumer Products Subcommittee.

Nathan is a proud alum of Stetson University College of Law and Furman University. Nathan recently completed a two-year term as the president of the Stetson Lawyers Alumni Association, where he worked closely with Stetson's Alumni Development office to foster alumni engagement across the state of Florida and nationwide. He remains a dedicated member of its Alumni Advisory Board.

In addition, Nathan previously served as a member of Furman University's Admission Network, where he conducted interviews with graduating high school seniors who applied for admission to Furman. He has also represented Furman at college fairs and other engagements as an ambassador for Furman University. Nathan enjoys remaining involved in alumni activities and has hosted alumni events locally for Furman University.
